

Jake Corning is a Regional Automation Manager for Acieta, a leading RIA certified and FANUC Authorized System Integrator. He has many years of experience as a mechanical engineer designing robotic solutions for manufacturing applications. Jake's first-hand experience in the field gives him unique perspective to help customers find the best automated solutions to stay competitive and grow. He has a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Wisconsin- Madison